

MANY JEWELRY ROBBERIES IN NEW YORK CITY

$50,000 Loot Of Thefts This Week; Diamond Dealer Killed

New York, May 2—(UP)—The killing of a well-known diamond merchant and two more daring jewel robberies which totalled nearly $50,000, sent city and state police on a wide search today for the band of jewel thieves who have been operating in New York recently.

The body of Abraham Levy, who disappeared mysteriously on Feb. 14, with $20,000 in gems, was recovered from Long Island Sound, near the estate of the late Marcus Low, theatre magnate. The body had been pierced by five bullets, and loops of wire were knotted around the neck, hands and legs.

Identification was made several hours after the body had been recovered by Jack Block, a boatman, who had forced Levy into their automobile, robbed him and then threw his body into the water after strangling and shooting him to death. Block will receive $1,000 reward offered for his recovery.

While police were seeking the identity of Levy yesterday, two well-dressed thieves walked into the apartment of Robert R. Livingston in the Riverside Drive section and robbed Mrs. Livingston and a woman caller of jewels valued at $9,500.

The thieves gained entrance to the building on the pretext of having brokerage business with Livingston. When Mrs. Livingston informed them her husband was too ill to see anyone, they drew revolvers and ordered her to hand over her jewelry. Mrs. Livingston told police that rather than allow the intruders to enter her husband, who was ill in bed, she removed a diamond bracelet and a ring and handed them over.

At the request of Mrs. Livingston, Mrs. William J. Ennever, a friend gave them a $2,500 diamond ring she wore.

Another huge gem robbery in the exclusive Central Park section was revealed when Mrs. Florence E. Canfield informed police that burglars had forced an entrance to her home last Thursday night and stolen jewels worth $25,000.

Mrs. Whitney, a former Los Angeles society woman, whose husband, Casper Whitney, noted Boston editor and explorer, died in 1929, was having dinner with her daughter when her boudoir was ransacked, she told police.

Expeditions Near Marooned Explorer

Reykjavik, Iceland, May 2—(UP)—Expeditions attempting to resume or aid Augustine Courtauld, rich young Briton isolated on the Greenland icecap, were nearing their goal today by steamship, airplane and dog sled. Fair weather aided the search.

While Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, the noted Swedish pilot flying to aid Courtauld, prepared to continue from Reykjavik to Greenland, the rescue ship Odin was reported to have sent out a plane from the edge of the ice cap to Angmagssalik, preparatory to establishing a base for the search at Lemmon, the camp of the wireless operator of the Watkins expedition. Meanwhile friends of Courtauld again were attempting to reach him by dog sled from the camp.

Courtauld, who had spent the winter at an isolated camp established by the Watkins British Arctic Air Route Expedition, recently was reported in considerable danger and without food. The first three dog sled expeditions which attempted to relieve him failed.

Dr. Kelley To See Police During Day

St. Louis, Mo., May 2—(UP)—Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, who mysteriously disappeared and was mysteriously reappeared and said he had been kidnapped early this week, was to relate his experiences to police today.

Dr. Kelley disappeared after answering a sick call April 20 and reappeared in custody of a newspaper reporter April 28. Since then he had declined to discuss his case with police.

Police have said they are not at all satisfied with explanations so far made in the case. Dr. Kelley will be shown through the Rouses Gallery in an effort to have him identify his abductors.

CANNON TURNED DOWN

Washington, May 2—(UP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., today was informed by Chairman Nye of the Senate campaign expenditures committee that the committee's plan to begin investigation into his anti-Smith campaign activities of 1928 will proceed Wednesday morning despite the churchman's protest.

Cannon wrote the committee recently that he was "surprised" to note in the press that it planned to call its investigators as witnesses at a hearing next week, after he had requested that nothing be done until after May 11.

KIRKLAND CASE ADJOURNED FOR THE WEEK END

Not A Single Juror Is Accepted For Trial Of Gary Youth

Valparaiso, Ind., May 2—(UP)—Two women, one a grandmother and the other the mother of a grown, unmarried daughter, were added to the seven jurors tentatively accepted today to hear the second trial of Virgil Kirkland, former Gary athlete, on charges of murdering his high school sweetheart, Arlene Draves.

With not a single juror definitely accepted and a third panel of 75 called for Monday, when the trial opens, both defense and prosecution faced what appeared a hopeless task of selecting twelve jurors who would admit that they were "open minded" in the matter of determining Kirkland's guilt or innocence.

The majority of the 81 men and three women who passed through the jury box this week admitted definite opinions derived from the first trial, in which the 20-year-old defendant was sentenced to life imprisonment on conviction of murder as the result of a blow. Many of them, farmers, said they could not spare any time from their farm labors.

The two women accepted yesterday by the defense and awaiting questioning by the state said they were "open minded" on the case.

Mrs. Mattie Conover, 55, of Valparaiso, a grandmother, told defense attorneys that, while a prohibitionist, she did not condemn modern methods "for violation of the Volstead act." She also indicated she was not disturbed by the liberal moral attitude of the young people of today.

The other woman accepted by the defense was Mrs. Martha Crowder, mother of a 23-year-old daughter. She said she did not condemn drinking and that she would base her verdict in the trial "solely on the evidence presented."

Before adjourning court until Monday, Judge Grant Crumpacker said he would take under advisement defense motion to suppress a book entitled, "The Inside Story of the Kirkland Case."

Mrs. Wm. H. Robbins Of Amboy Is Called

Amboy, May 2—Mrs. Mary Robbins, wife of William H. Robbins, passed away at her home west of Union Corners in Amboy, Friday evening, at the age of 60 years, after illness of some duration. Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church in Amboy Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Nye officiating and with interment at Prairie Rest cemetery.

Mrs. Robbins was born in Viola township Oct. 20, 1870 and her entire life was spent in Lee county. She is survived by her husband; two sons, Chauncey W. and Forest M. Robbins; her mother, Mrs. Jacob Miller; two sisters, Mrs. I. E. Travis and Mrs. Fred Green; and three brothers, Jacob, Forest and Merritt Miller, all of Amboy. She was preceded in death by her father, a sister, a brother and a daughter.

Many friends mourn her passing and unite in deep sympathy for the bereaved husband, children, brothers and sisters.

BUSINESS HEADS OF COUNTRY SEE TURN TO BETTER

No Time For Pessimism Is Basis Of Views Of Many Leaders

Copyright, 1931, By The United Press

Atlantic City, N. J., May 2—(UP)—A gradual improvement in business, of which the signs already are appearing, is seen by industrial leaders who attended the U. S. Chamber of Commerce meeting here, according to a United Press canvass of sentiment and their public expressions showed that while business leaders do not try to minimize the seriousness of the slump through which the country has passed and in which it still finds itself, they see indications of an improvement, which, they agree, must be slow and steady.

Some of these views follow. Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont:

"After such a cataclysm as we have been through, time and the slow working of economic readjustments are necessary before the world can return to economic health and vigor. And there can be no doubt that many of the necessary adjustments have been and are being made, and that business even now is sluggishly responding to the stimulus of these needed changes. What ever were the causes of our present difficulties, the corrective influences have now been at work for many months."

Improvements Noted Retiring President William Brewster of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce:

"We have reached the point when improvements are appearing in the news of the hour. Even in times of the greatest activity all fields and all enterprises are not prosperous. In all periods of business recovery we cannot expect all news to be uniformly good but we must not make the mistake of allowing the disappointing features to blind us to those which reflect the realities of the situation and the trend of events."

Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant: "I think at the end of the year there will be a beginning of an upward turn that will continue through next year. Next year is going to be an election year and the Republicans who are in the majority in business in general influence know that their party cannot be reelected unless things are better. They will exert a strong continuous influence. There are many others on tip-toe waiting to jump and that will serve to reinforce the general movement for improvement."

Not Time For Pessimism Fred M. Sargent, President Chicago & Northwestern Railway:

"I have no doubt we have reached the end of the depression. World forces are shaping themselves for an upward trend. This is no time for pessimism, it is time to face the future with confidence."

Pliny E. Holt, Director of Caterpillar Traction Company, Stockton, Calif.:

"I expect a gradual improvement. I don't think there will be an immediate marked improvement, but it will come slowly and surely."

Romeo C. Stephenson, South Bend, Ind. President, American Bankers Association:

"I do not suppose that any among us are pessimistic enough to believe that anything but at least gradual improvement in business lies ahead. I hope we can agree we are facing toward a new business era."

R. R. Deupree, President, Procter & Gamble, Cincinnati, Ohio:

"Any company which can bring about better economic and social conditions will have no difficulty in growing in whatever industry it may be engaged."

Robert Masson, Director General, Credit Lyonnais, and one of the most influential banking figures in the world, related a little incident of a tour of the United States in 1916 during the World War in a speech to the Chamber of Commerce last night in making his comment.

To reporters who met him at the train and asked when the war would end, he said, it would end some time. When he picked up the papers the next morning, he saw in flaming headlines the words "end of war in sight."

"Well, I feel like prophesying again if you will allow me to do so," he told his audience last night, with an impish smile.

"This crisis is sure to end, and we have never been so near the end as we are today."

Twenty-Three Given Carnegie Hero Medals

Pittsburgh, May 2—(UP)—Twenty-three persons were the possessors today of bronze medals awarded by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, and dependents of three others who lost their lives in acts of bravery were recipients of pensions aggregating $600 annually.

Cash awards totalling $20,000, of which $8,000 was awarded five persons for educational purposes, also were made.

Pennsylvania led the list according to states, with six awards. Ohio was next with five, New York, four, West Virginia, two, Texas, two, and Oklahoma, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina had one each.

HUNT "SCARFACE" AL" IN "MIKE DE PIKE'S" MURDER

Numerous Raids Fail To Uncover Czar Of Underworld

Chicago, May 2—(AP)—Alphonse Capone, the gang chief, was sought today by State's Attorney's detectives for questioning in connection with their inquiry into the death of a man whose charred body they believed to be that of "Mike de Pike" Heitler, pioneer racketeer. The body was found last Thursday in the smoldering ruins of an ice house near Barrington, Ill.

Acting on orders issued by Patrick Roche, Chief Investigator for the State's Attorney, the officers raided the Lexington hotel, reputed to be frequently used as Capone headquarters. Although they failed to find the gang chief, four of his henchmen, were arrested. They were Louis Russo, brother of "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn; Phil Andrea, Fred Rossi and Tony Capozzi.

The police also arrested at his home, "Dago" Lawrence Mangano, reputed operator of a Capone vice, gambling and liquor syndicate. Roche said Heitler had operated extensively as a rival to the Mangano organization. Other raids were made on resorts reputed to be run in the area in which Heitler operated by the police, who declined to reveal what, if anything, they had learned.

To Continue Raids "We will raid everywhere until we drive out every hoodlum from Chicago," Roche said. "This is just part of our campaign to clean up the city. The hoodlum is getting out. That means Capone, too, and we are now looking for him."

Positive identification of the "torch victim" was sought meanwhile by police through attempts to trace two of his gold teeth to the dentist who had done the man's work. Roche said after viewing the body he was convinced the man was Heitler. A partly burned automobile which Heitler had borrowed from one of two women, each of whom claimed to be his wife, was found near Itasca, 15 miles from the fire scene.

The torso was discovered after Mrs. Hattie Gannusch, who lives near the ice house, noticed the fire and called police. She told them she saw three men she believed to be gangsters in the vicinity of the ice house on the afternoon of the fire. Heitler was to have appeared in court yesterday on a charge of perjury, but his attorney asked a continuance, saying that his client had been missing since last Wednesday.

TWENTY-THREE INDICTED

Twenty-three men, alleged employees of Capone, including Bert Delaney, accused as manufacturers in the Capone booze syndicate, were named in two indictments returned by the federal grand jury yesterday. The bills grew out of raids on south side breweries.

Principal figures in the indictments, in addition to Delaney, were Steve Svoboda, brewmaster; Martin Accardo, brother of Tony Accardo, Capone gangster; and John Matthes.

Their indictment, and that of other alleged Capone henchmen, was based upon raids made recently.

Two of the raids were on Capone's breweries at 3136 South Wabash Avenue, where beer valued at $75,000 was seized, and at 1642 South Cicero Avenue.

Four of the defendants were arrested in the raid on the Wabash Avenue brewery, and six others, including Delaney, were seized the next day when they tried to haul away the plant equipment confiscated in a raid, according to Assistant District Attorney Edwin A. Fisher.

In addition to these ten men, six others were taken into custody later, and seven more were arrested in the Cicero raid.

Burning Oil Well Claims Ninth Life

Gladewater, Tex., May 2—(UP)—Efforts were temporarily suspended today to snuff out the Sindland company's Cole gusher, which had been flaming since Tuesday night when nine men were fatally burned.

The task of clearing away debris in preparation to setting off a charge of nitroglycerine at the gusher's mouth had proved more formidable than was anticipated. The main attempt to blast out the pillar of fire will not be made before tomorrow workmen said.

Another death and an injury were added to the well's heavy toll of life and property late yesterday. Frank Felock, 39, Warner, Ohio, succumbed to burns suffered at the time fire leaped about the gusher. A cable fell on Harry Kinley, Tulsa, Okla., and broke his leg.

Members Of Gang Of Young Robbers Shot

Chicago, May 2—(AP)—Three boys, members of a gang of six or seven youths who are accused of raiding Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad freight cars, were shot early today by a special detective. One of the boys, George Tiekawski, 16, was the most seriously injured, receiving a bullet wound in the abdomen.

His companions, who were less seriously injured, were Michael Czarnicki, 15, and Frank Cholewa, 18. They refused to name their companions.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

FIND ABANDONED CAR

A sedan bearing Colorado license plates, was abandoned near the Black Oak service station on state highway, route 89 during the night. State Highway Officer K. L. Church investigated this morning and found that the car had been stripped of many accessories.

LEE CITIZEN IN TROUBLE

Clayton Miller, a resident of Lee in the east end of the county, was arrested last evening by Deputy Sheriff Marshall Edwards and brought to the county jail, where he was booked on a drunkenness charge. An information was to be filed before Judge Leech in the county court today.

QUIT HALF-HOLIDAYS

The Merchants Division of the Sterling Association of Commerce, by a margin of one vote, has decided against the usual Thursday afternoon half-holiday during the summer months. Store employees will be given half-holidays during the weeks if they desire them.

FOR SCOUTS' TOUR

Boy Scouts of Black Hawk Area Council are to have another opportunity of visiting the national Capitol at Washington, D. C., and other points of historic interest, in the eastern states during the month of June. A special train bearing the Scouts will leave Chicago Monday afternoon, June 22 for a five day tour of the Eastern states.

OLD ROBBERY REPORTED

Reports of a robbery said to have been committed on the night of April 8, when the home of a Palmyra township recluse was said to have been entered and papers and some money stolen, did not reach the office of Sheriff Fred Richardson until this morning. A disinterested party told the sheriff that the aged recluse had lost bonds, stocks and a small sum of money when his home was entered on the above date and ransacked. An investigation was to be conducted into the report.

TO DEKALB MEET

Members of the track team of the Dixon high school accompanied by a delegation of students, went to DeKalb this morning, where they are attending the annual Northern Illinois conference track and field meet. Next Saturday, the annual Northwest Illinois high school sectional meet will be held at the north side athletic field in this city. It is expected that about 20 schools will be represented and that approximately 250 athletes will participate in the various events.

FINAL WARNING

A final warning to motorists who have failed to procure their 1931 state license plates, was issued today by State Investigator Frank J. Rosbrook. In a recent canvass, it was found that a large number of 1930 plates are still in use in this locality. State Investigator Rosbrook states that the plates are very much out of date and must be replaced with 1931 licenses at once. This final warning is issued to avoid the embarrassment of being arrested and taken into court and fined it was stated.

PROF. AUSTIN TO QUIT

Prof. E. T. Austin, for 29 years head of the Sterling township high school and well known throughout the country as an educator, has announced he will resign at the end of the present term, to devote his future to conducting and planning European tours. He will be associated with a Iowa promoter, for whom he has conducted many tours through the continent. His many friends in Dixon will wish him unlimited success in his new venture. He will continue to make his home in Sterling.

MOTHERS DAY

One week from tomorrow, Sunday May 10, will be observed all over the nation. Many cards and letters are expected on that occasion, and no less than millions are received at that time, lose much of their value.

There being no delivery of ordinary mail on Sunday, the Post Office Department suggests in the event patrons are in doubt about their greetings arriving in time for delivery before Sunday, the affixing of a "special delivery" stamp. Then delivery will be effected just as soon after mail is received in the post office, as is possible.

Honduran Rebels In Unexpected Attack

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 2—(UP)—Government reinforcements sped toward the city of Santa Rosa, 20 miles from the Guatemalan border, today in an effort to save it from the hands of attacking revolutionary forces under Gen. Gregorio Ferrera.

Officials said it was almost certain that the town would fall to the rebels if federal forces were delayed in arriving with fresh troops sent from San Pedro Sula. Fighting in the suburbs of Santa Rosa, one of the leading cities of the western zone, began last night and was continuing with communications were interrupted.

Announcement at the offices of President Vincente Mejia Colindres said the rebels' main army had started the attack before the federal government troops after retreating into the mountainous regions for the last week.

PICTURES OF ALL FORMER HEADS OF CITY ARE SOUGHT

Citizens Asked To Aid In Collections Of These Portraits

Mayor Geo. C. Dixon has launched a plan whereby he hopes to be able to procure photographs of all of the former mayors of the city, which are to be placed in the city hall. City Clerk Bake Grover yesterday afternoon mailed out requests for photographs to all known relatives of former mayors, asking their cooperation in assembling the photos. It is planned also to procure photographs of presidents of the board of trustees of the town of Dixon from 1853 to 1888 before the town was incorporated as a city and from 1889 to the present date.

Every part of the city building is to receive a thorough housecleaning this spring. It has been announced, and as soon as the council chamber is in readiness, the task of assembling the photographs will be started and placed in appropriate positions. All but one of the former presidents of the town board from 1853 to 1888 have been lost track of. Six former citizens served in this capacity. John Dixon being the first. The families of J. B. Brooks, Fitch R. Dana, John H. Cropsey, Lemuel W. Atherton and Nathan W. Abbott have left this locality and Mayor C. Stedman, who served the city as mayor in 1860, Oliver Everett, 1863; James K. Edsall, 1864; Andrew McPherson, 1867; John Dement, 1869 and John V. Thomas, 1880, communicate the information to City Clerk Bake Grover that the group may be assembled. The list of mayors who have served the city to date since the incorporation of the City of Dixon is as follows:

1878-79, John Dement; 1880-84, John V. Thomas; 1885, Richard S. Farrand; 1886-87, A. Clinton Warner; 1888-89, S. J. Noble; 1890-92, George Street; 1893-94, Joseph P. Palmer; 1895-96, Charles H. Hughes; 1897-99, Frederick A. Truman; 1900, Charles H. Hughes; 1901-02, Frederick A. Truman; 1903, Henry S. Dixon; 1904-05, J. F. Edwards; 1911, William B. Brinton; 1915, Henry Schmidt; 1919, Mark D. Smith; 1923, Frank D. Palmer.

Presidents of Board of Trustees 1853 John Dixon; 1854 J. B. Brooks; 1855, Fitch R. Dana; 1856, John H. Cropsey; 1857, Lemuel W. Atherton; 1858, Nathan W. Abbott. Mayors of City of Dixon 1859, Joseph Crawford acting mayor on March 23 to April 26, Amos C. Stedman, April 6 to end of term. 1860, Amos C. Stedman; 1861, Geo. L. Herick; 1862, James B. Charters; 1863, Oliver Everett; 1864, James K. Edsall; 1865-66, Person Cheney; 1867-68, Andrew McPherson; 1869-72, John Dement; 1873-75, Joseph Crawford; 1876-77, James A. Hawley.

Farmers Of Kansas Ignoring Advice

Washington, May 2—(UP)—The governor of one of the heaviest wheat producing states of the union has brought word to Washington that wheat growers of the west are ignoring the Federal Farm Board's pleadings to reduce their acreage.

Harry Woodring, young Kansas governor, said his state this year would produce about 177,000,000 bushels of wheat, within 4,000,000 bushels of the highest yield in its history. The average farmer of the west, he said, is going ahead with his plantings without regard for Farm Board advice that the way to better prices is to decrease production.

Agricultural leaders, however, are supporting the board's aim and attempting to persuade the growers to adopt them, Woodring said. The board's recommendation of a gradual reduction to a domestic market basis was repeated yesterday, when it was announced that Sam R. McKelvie, a member of the board, was designated to attend the wheat conference in London May 18.

The board feels that such a conference will lead to a better understanding of the mutual problems of nations confronted with a wheat surplus.

Bishop Cannon Is Asked To Resign

Nashville, Tenn., May 2—(AP)—Resignation of James Cannon, Jr., from his bishopric in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is asked in a petition to the semi-annual meeting of the College of Bishops here.

The petition, from a group of Methodist laymen, was made public in Richmond, Va., and Bishop John M. Moore, Secretary of the College, said it was the same as others received by him along with various communications opposing Cannon's elevation to the presidency of the college under a rule of rotation. At the same time, Bishop Moore said, letters also had been received supporting Cannon.

MADEIRA REBELS SURRENDERED TO PORTUGAL FORCE

Leaders Of Revolt In Funchal Down Arms To Save Lives

By GEORGE HALADJIAN
Lisbon, Portugal, May 2—(AP)—After four weeks of blockade by government ships and several days active siege by land, sea and air, the revolutionary forces at Madeira were stated by the government to have downed their arms today. Wireless reports from the loyal forces informed officials that Souza Dias, one of Portugal's most famous generals and leader of the revolt had surrendered unconditionally.

The breakdown of the revolutionary movement followed closely on the heels of May Day disorders in Lisbon itself which for a time assumed revolutionary nature and resulted in the cabinet taking refuge in the barracks of the Third Artillery regiment. Lisbon was quiet today.

This afternoon Minister of Marine Correia, who commanded the government punitive expedition to Madeira reported that the offer to surrender had been sent him signed by General Diaz and several others of the military junta in control of Funchal.

The rebels said they had decided to capitulate because they were facing superior forces and in order to avoid loss of life among the non-combatant population.

Correia ordered a suspension of hostilities as soon as the rebels assured him their surrender was unconditional.

Funchal will be occupied by government forces tonight.

The Minister of Marine felicitated the government on the outcome of the punitive expedition and paid high tribute to the forces participating in the siege. He concluded his message with a cancellation of his earlier request for additional troops and material.

Correia ordered a suspension of hostilities as soon as the rebels assured him their surrender was unconditional.

SUIT IS DISMISSED
Chicago, May 2—(AP)—A motion to dismiss a bankruptcy petition filed against Wilbur Glenn Voliva, Overseer of the Zion City colony, was granted by U. S. District Judge Charles E. Woodward today. The court upheld the contention of Voliva's counsel that the petition set forth insufficient allegations to throw into receivership the millions of dollars worth of Zion property controlled by Voliva.

The five petitioners, presenting $3000 in claims, were given until Monday to file an amended petition. A sixth creditor, Benjamin Heggen, 79, withdrew from the suit with an affidavit asserting he was "misinformed" by one of the petitioners.

Approve New Railway Bridge At LaSalle

Washington, May 2—(AP)—Plans for a bridge over the Illinois river at LaSalle, Illinois, to be built by the Illinois Central Railroad, were approved today by the War Department.

The plans, which were amended as a result of objections to the proposed clearances made at a public hearing January 2, 1931, call for a horizontal clearance of 260 feet and a vertical clearance of 44 feet above highest water.

Eleven Horses Die In Laundry Blaze

Chicago, May 2—(UP)—Eleven horses were burned to death today in a fire of mysterious origin which destroyed a one story frame building owned by the Archer Wet Wash Laundry Company.

Joseph Ehrhart, Fire Captain, ordered an investigation of this and other mysterious fires in the neighborhood in recent weeks.

The loss, not including the horses was estimated at $2,000.

RAID BREAKFAST CLUB

Chicago, May 2—(UP)—Federal prohibition agents cracked open the peep hole of the Breakfast club, resort just north of the loop, forced their way in and carted away beer, whiskey and fixtures including a mahogany bar early today. The seizures were valued at $30,000. Seven men were arrested.

A dozen guests, the orchestra and ten chorus girls were held for an hour to be questioned individually. Then the movie vans backed up to the door and the luxurious furnishings were hauled away.

BROKER, 78, IS DEAD

Chicago, May 2—(AP)—Frank E. Winans, one of the oldest members of the Chicago Board of Trade, died today after an illness of several weeks. He was 78 years old.

Mr. Winans became a member of the Board of Trade in 1875 and he served as director in 1898, 1899 and two daughters. Funeral service are to be held Monday afternoon.

AMERICA, I CAN

UT from the human, seething mass
Of Ellis Island's gate I come;
A pilgrim groping in the night
Of foreign tongues,
A pilgrim searching for the light

Released from wrongs
Released from fears,
That selfish kings, through countless years,
Have heaped upon the land
I loved, at once called home.

Out from a land despoiled
I come
On teach me thy great Nation's plan
To live a true American.
I can, O Starry Flag, I can.

Out from a long distinguished line
Of noble patriots I come;
A citizen by right of birth,
A free-born son,
Inheriting the smiles of earth
That have been won
Through strength and prayer,
Through tears and sacrificial care,
Through loss of all the heart holds dear,
That this might be my home.
From such inheritance
I come
On teach me now my Nation's plan
To live a true American.
I can, O Starry Flag, I can.

War Mothers Will Sell Carnations For Mother's Day

American War Mothers ask you to wear a carnation on Mother's Day. Will you make May 10th, Mother's Day, the greatest in its history? Will you help make the busy public pause long enough to buy the flower to be offered Carnation Day, May 10th, and to send a message to a little mother who will be made happy in knowing that she is not forgotten?

Will you help make the public remember that the American War Mother, who will ask the passerby to wear the carnation offered by her, gave her all in the World War, that we might light in happiness and plenty?

They are the same Mothers who spent days and days in the Red Cross rooms during the World War and went from house to house to sell Liberty Bonds.

They now ask you to help pay the debt of gratitude for service given by the World War veterans. Beside assisting ex-service men in their various undertakings and caring for numerous disabled men in the hospitals, the American War Mothers' organization has in many instances helped needy service men to obtain employment and helped finance their families until work could be found.

Drop your offering into the Red White and Blue coin box, to be held out to you, and wear a carnation for the dearest Sweetheart you ever had.

Crown Prince Michael Now Out of Danger

Bucharest, Rumania, May 2—(AP)—Although stricken with a slight attack of fever, Princess Helen today hovered over the bedside of Crown Prince Michael, who has diphtheria. The mother was given an injection of anti-toxin to protect her. She scoffed at her indisposition, which was a consequence of the protective treatment, and refused to leave the boy. The English governess whom the lad has known through infancy also was treated with anti-toxin.

Physicians expressed the belief that Michael was out of danger. His temperature dropped from 104 degrees to 101.3.

MENU for the FAMILY

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
CREOLE CORN
Creole Corn Spinach
Bread Grape Jelly

May Luncheon Charming Affair

Mrs. Roy Raffenberg was in Rochelle yesterday afternoon where she attended a very charming luncheon given by the Garden club at the home of Mrs. F. W. Hoon. It was termed a May basket luncheon and the guests enjoyed a picnic luncheon carried in the prettily decorated baskets. The luncheon was served in the garden at the rear of the Hoon home and it really proved to be a May garden party. The ladies vied with each other in making pretty baskets and the skill of their girlhood came back in fashioning attractive baskets. Two ladies tied for the honor of having the prettiest basket.

Mrs. George Stahmer of Maywood formerly of Rochelle was the speaker for the afternoon and she gave a most enjoyable talk on Gardens and gardening. Mrs. Stahmer is Mrs. Raffenberg's sister.

LONDON DONS GLOVES FOR GREETING SPRING

London (AP)—Fashionable Mayfair is waving to approaching spring with gloves.
Laced gloves, reaching the elbow, have made their appearance in some smart parties as complements to evening gowns, a shorter silk glove being worn with afternoon frocks.

Because they are more easily washed the fabricated gloves are favored in some circles over the more expensive kid gloves.

The Octette Bridge Club Held Meeting

The Octette Bridge Club met Thursday evening with Miss Marjette Warner and a happy evening was spent by all attending. Miss Phyllis Teeter won the favor for high honors and Miss Pauline Flanagan was awarded the consolation favor. Tempting refreshments were served.

PICNIC SUPPER AND TREASURE HUNT

The picnic supper and treasure hunt to have been held by Mrs. Shawger's Sunday school class and the Sunday school class taught by Mr. Lang, on Tuesday evening, will be on Monday evening at the M. E. church, instead. All are urged to attend. Call 49 for further information.

AUXILIARY SPANISH AMERICAN WAR VETERANS TO MEET

The Auxiliary to the Spanish American War Veterans will meet Tuesday evening in G. A. R. hall and a good attendance is desired as a candidate is to be voted on.

Former Ashton Residents Honored On Wedding Date

Th following story from the Los Fresnos, Texas, Light tells of the 35th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. August Pfeiffer of Ashton, celebrated on Sunday, April 12th and will be read with interest by relatives and friends in this vicinity.

"Sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. August Pfeiffer honored their parents with a pleasant surprise party on the occasion of their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Chas.

"All children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer were present at this event. The rooms were beautifully decorated with verbenas and roses.

"The evening was spent in various games and contests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Goff, Smith Henderson, P. C. Richey, A. Pfeiffer and J. Kuykendahl. A short article, designated as 'ancient history' describing early lives of Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer and their immigration to Texas was read by Mrs. Peter Watkins. A pretty gift of crystalware was presented to the honorees.

"Delicious refreshments of pie a la mode and coffee were served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. E. Kuykendahl, Mr. and Mrs. George Kretz and daughter Lois, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Chas and sons, Miss Mae Pfeiffer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuykendahl, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bingley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rosenkoetter, Mr. and Mrs. George Laakso and Robert Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Chas, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bowler, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Richey, Miss Gertrude Siderus, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Critchett, Goff and Mrs. Irvin Womack and Mrs. Goff of Ree Heights, South Dakota."

Helen Keller and Earl Musselman In Visit at Her Home

New York, May 2—(UP)—Earl Musselman, who was blind for 22 years until a surgeon cut a false pupil in his left eye two months, and Helen Keller, who has been blind all her life, met Friday at Miss Keller's home in Forest Hills.

Miss Keller talked to the youth through her secretary, Miss Mollie Thompson, who tapped in code in the palm of the blind woman's hand. Miss Keller is deaf as well as blind.

They discussed automobile driving. "Do you like country driving better than city driving?" Miss Keller asked. "Oh yes," Musselman replied. "It's not so confusing in the country and I can see better."

"Do you want to learn to drive an automobile?" "Yes, I do."

"That is something I have always wanted to do," Miss Keller said. "There is such a thing as a back seat driver," Musselman replied, smiling.

After talking in the living room of her home, Miss Keller invited Musselman into the garden.

"I have some tulips for you to see," she said.

"Oh yes," said Earl, peering at the flower beds. "They are tulips."

Miss Keller's Great Dane dog came bounding across the garden and immediately made friends with Musselman.

"That's the biggest dog I ever saw," Earl said.

Musselman told Miss Keller that colors were much brighter than he had imagined and tried to explain to her how the colors of a flower would look if she could see them.

"Your dress is blue—a beautiful blue," he said. "Blue is my favorite color."

"How happy you must be with another pair of eyes," Miss Keller said. "You are just coming into the springtime. But don't forget your inner eye—the eye of the mind. The only lasting happiness we can have is to make this old world a more pleasant place in which to live."

Family Reunion at Chas. Etchison Home

A family reunion was held last Sunday at the home of Charles W. Etchison, 212, Fourteenth avenue, in Sterling in honor of Mr. Etchison's birthday, which occurred on that day. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Iverson and family of Clinton, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Mefford and family, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hackman and daughter of Virginia, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney and family of Dixon, Ill., and Mrs. Howard Etchison of Chicago, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McBride and son of Rock Falls, Miss Dawn Hemphill, Kenneth and Katherine Etchison and Harold McBride of Sterling.

All of the children were at home but one son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Etchison, of Donna, Texas.

A delicious chicken dinner was served to the guests. After wishing Mr. Etchison many happy returns of the day they departed for their homes.

Famous Artists' May Ball Displayed Novel Costumes, Etc.

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, May 2—(UP)—In 1931 this land of ours is going to be very hot, indeed. If the clothing worn at the Chicago Artists' famous annual ball is any criterion of temperature 50 years hence.

"And that's what the ball is supposed to represent," explained blond and beautiful Charlotte Van Ness, whose costume consisted principally of beauty spots, in the shape of elephants and butterflies, liberally applied.

It was nice and cool, and breezy, said she very comfortably, too, albeit she anticipated a bit of trouble in removing it, inasmuch as the beauty spots stuck with the tenacity of fresh adhesive tape.

Another young artist startled the drummers and other citizens in the Congress Hotel by parading in a coat, and pants, too, of blue paint. "I hope it'll wash off," said he. "And if it doesn't," replied an artistic wit, "you might daub it with red spots and get a job as a cigar store Indian."

There also was the "window pane" skirt, as demonstrated by Nancy Norton. The skirt was made of transparent parchment, but Nancy wore under it a good, old-fashioned petticoat.

She danced with a gentleman clad in coat, vest and trousers made of high grade, green oil-cloths. The advertisements of the latter costume are obvious, what with eggs inclined to drip, grapefruit to squirt, and gravy to dribble.

"A wipe with damp cloth and my suit is presentable anywhere any time," proudly proclaimed the gentleman in green. "But, hey, get away from here with that match," he admonished a nearby smoker, who might catch fire.

Which goes to show the chances a thorough-going artist will take, simply for his art. But Marie Harmon wasn't taking any chances, not that way last. She was prepared for any thing, with a dress made of shiny, tin sheathing.

"Of course it's a bit hard to sit down in," she said, "but then again it's bullet, water and wind proof. And I don't believe it will rust."

The 1931 edition of the blond and lovely Madeline Harber found her arrayed in patent leather. "Very practical it is, except that its inclination to squeak," she said. "It would be nice and warm on a cold day, too."

One of her conferees had a wide gold band around her left leg. "It's not real gold," the latter explained with remarkable candor for this day and age, "but it gives you the general idea. Its for my name and address in case I were to get lost or get amnesia or something."

Finally, of the veritable horde of artists and art students who danced away a large part of May 1 before the ball ended, was a youth who believed that the prohibition laws will endure at least until 1931.

"So I call my suit the 'life preserver,'" said he, while demonstrating his one dozen capacious pockets, in each one of which was a quart bottle containing something which he insisted was not mineral water or tomato juice.

Coast to Coast Tour Concluded By Civic Opera Co.

Chicago, Ill., May 2—(UP)—Members of the Chicago Civic Opera Company returned here recently after completing a post season tour which took them on a 10,000 mile journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. The company travelled in two special trains and appeared in twelve cities during the tour, presenting 53 performances.

The Opera's Ballat School will make its bow here next Sunday, May 10, at the Civic Theatre, with a performance of the entire ballet menu from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" and two other ballet groups.

The performance has been arranged by Laurent Novikoff, Director of the school and of the Chicago Civic Opera Ballet. For most of the students the occasion will mark their first appearances in public.

FOR SUNDAY MORNING BREAKFAST, JELLY OMELET

Beat together yolks and whites of 3 eggs until slightly blended; season with salt and pepper and add 3 tablespoons hot water. Melt 1 tablespoon in hot frying pan, turn in egg mixture and stir in center with a spatula and tilt pan so soft mixture comes in contact with hot pan. When it has set, grease center and spread one side with jam or jelly. Fold and serve on hot platter.

After the program the hostess served most delicious refreshments. At a late hour the ladies departed home having spent a most enjoyable afternoon at the Polesel home.

Annual Physical Culture Exhibition Was Most Inspiring Affair

The annual physical culture exhibition staged at the high school gymnasium last evening was an inspiring affair. Under the direction of Miss Peterson, physical culture director for Dixon, the pupils of the grades and high school went through a series of drills, games and dances that demonstrated splendid training.

This is national health week and the program, arranged by Mrs. Hal Roberts the school nurse for the Segner and Dr. Moss. The physician and the dental surgeon, both introduced by Superintendent Potter, gave brief talks on the value of periodical examinations for the prevention of disease.

The school orchestra furnished fine music and every available seat and all the standing room was packed by proud parents who came to see their young hopefuls perform their stunts.

Peggy Joyce Has Million Dollars, Plus

New York, May 2—(UP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce is pretty piqued at Uncle Sam's prosecutors, because they have revealed, of all things, a age.

A federal man, curious about Peggy's fortune, and doubting that she filed a complete income tax return, got to prying among some yellowed papers in the little Virginia town where the much-married Miss Joyce was born and found her birth certificate.

And that, he said, revealed her as being 43 years old.

"This revelation will not prevent Peggy, however, from going to the Customs House on Tuesday and trying to explain away a $51,000 duty and fine the government has assessed on her for allegedly bringing some undeclared jewelry into this country in 1922.

And when she leaves the Customs House, the United States Attorney says he may take the actress into conference on another matter, this time about her income tax. He estimates she is worth some $1,250,000.

F. F. Club Members Enjoyed Meeting

The F. F. club met at the home of Dorothy Irey last Saturday. The girls enjoyed a delicious scramble supper after which the evening was spent in playing bridge.

Genevieve Reitzel received the prize for high honors and Alice Ware the consolation prize. The club adjourned to meet with Alice Ware in three weeks.

Mrs. Lee Fuqua Hostess Wednesday

Mrs. Lee Fuqua delightfully entertained the following friends at a luncheon party at her home Wednesday evening: Mrs. E. J. Collins and Mrs. L. Rasch of Chicago; Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. D. J. Lighter, Mrs. A. L. Carr, Mrs. Theodore Harms and Mrs. Jesse Wirth of this city. Tempting refreshments were served.

Picnic at Dysart School Thursday

On Thursday, April 30, the Dysart school, taught by Mrs. Leslie Herbst, closed with a sumptuous picnic dinner at the school which was attended by about fifty patrons and friends.

Five pupils, worthy of honorable mention for having been neither absent or tardy the entire school year are: Ralph Meyer, Ethel Shippert, Evelyn Shippert, Esie Torti and Robert Torti.

LADIES OF G. A. R. TO MEET

Dixon Circle No. 73, Ladies of the G. A. R., will meet Monday evening, May 4th, at 7:30, in G. A. R. hall.

Glorifying Yourself

I had some rather telling letters lately along this simple line. "Should I change my perfume this spring, perhaps go into a simple flower odor?"—and there follows a description of the slender one who has always preferred a heavy essence.

By all means, I answer, emphatically, loudly. Change your perfume. Change the way you do your hair. Change your clothes, your address, if possible, even your friends and your town, perhaps, if that isn't too big a strain.

For spring is here! It is the season of the greatest change of all. If you have yearnings for such simple things as the change of a brand of perfume, for pity's sake indulge it. There is no use getting the feeling of frustration over anything so unimportant, taking life by the large. Conversely, if you are tremendously sensible you will realize the actual lift there is, the stimulation you get out of such an action.

Personally I have known a rather plain woman who always used the cologne that her children gave her for Christmas and her birthday to entirely change her outlook on life by taking some of her house money one day, getting a facial, a marcel and a gorgeous bottle of the most exotic perfume that she had once admired on one of her daughters' friends.

Getting down to brass tacks, spring is the fresh, outdoors season. Why not try some of the exquisite mimosa perfume, or the acacia or the modern version of the single violet, all of them so suitable to the first zesty spring days? If you crave an intoxicating type of perfume, there is a blend of carnations, put out by a Spanish firm, that is splay, exhilarating, exotic.

The question I have asked of me, most frequently about perfume is this, "How can I tell when a perfume suits me?" I would simplify things to the point of saying, "By your nose." Certainly you can afford to be a little independent about this matter. If you like a certain scent, if it pleases you to wear it, don't let someone else beat you out of being happy.

Be a little independent. And don't make the choice too complicated. Just let the girl at a perfume counter put a little on your hand, then smell it after the alcohol has evaporated. Perhaps wear it home and smell it a little later.

GOLDEN RULE CLASS TO MEET TUESDAY

The Golden Rule Class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Bolman, 423 E. 7th street, Tuesday evening at 7:45. The assisting hostesses are Mrs. A. H. Hannekan and Mrs. Clifford Archer. This is a very important meeting and a good attendance is desired.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

Corner Third and Madison
B. C. Whitmore, Pastor

The lesson for the Sunday school adults next Sunday is "Jesus in the Home of Zachariah," or repentance and restitution. Golden text, "The son of man came to seek and save that which was lost." This is a good lesson. Our school begins at 10:00 o'clock. You and the whole family ought to be present for there is a class for each of you. Your friends and neighbors might appreciate an invitation to go with you more than anyone could tell. Try it, and see how it helps. The message for the morning worship at eleven o'clock will be, "In Touch With God." Have you kept in touch with Him? Bring your friends, and let us think "on these things" together.

The usual evening service begins at seven o'clock with the C. W. meetings and the worship service to follow at 7:45. It is a good thing to use the Lord's Day with fellowship with things divine. The message will be, "Without God in the World." You will find help at the House of God. Everyone cordially invited.

The date for the Communion service is May 10, 7 p. m.

HOW TO EAT BREAKFAST.

Stanley Baldwin, who used to be prime minister of England, remarked the other day that breakfast is the finest meal of the whole day; and since nothing is much pleasanter than talking about meals, we might just as well go into that topic right now.

"I always enjoy my breakfast," says Mr. Baldwin. "I find it the most pleasant meal of the day. I am getting to be an old man now, but I still come down to breakfast every morning feeling full of great hope, faith and cheer. By lunch time I have lost a great deal of it, and by evening I am nearly giving up all hope for this world or the next."

All of this, of course, proves nothing except that Mr. Baldwin does very well by himself at the breakfast table; but it does call to mind the fact that most Americans treat their breakfasts in a most unpardonable manner. Breakfast ought to be an event; it ought, as it is with Mr. Baldwin, to be an occasion of hope, faith and cheer; but for most of us it is hardly so much as an incident.

The chief trouble, probably, is that few of us come to the table fully awake. The city man lies abed until the last minute; then he stumbles to his feet, shaves and dresses in a fumbling sort of way, and comes to the dining room tying his tie and mumbling piteously. Fighting to get out of the grip of Morpheus, he gulps down his coffee and bolts his food like an automaton, and his breakfast is in him before he really knows that he is eating.

The farmer knows better. He generally does an hour or so of hard work before he goes to breakfast, so he is not only wide awake but has worked up a good appetite. And then? Well, he leisurely tackles a bowl of oatmeal, some eggs and sausage and fried potatoes, a few griddle cakes a doughnut or two and a couple of cups of coffee; and by the time he is through he can face the agricultural depression with a clear conscience.

Of course, such a breakfast would land the average city man in the hospital in short order. Nevertheless, the farmer has the right idea. Breakfast, to him, is something to be looked forward to—whereas for most of us it is just something to be got through with.

What would make a good breakfast for the harried city man? Well, half an hour's more time is the most important item. Let him get fully awake before he comes to the table, and let him stop eyeing the clock while he eats. The menu, then, is not so important. If he gives himself more time he will find his appetite improving; and presently his wife, instead of giving him toast and coffee and orange juice, will find him calling for such soul-stirring foods as ham and eggs, or little pig sausages, or corned beef hash. For it is of such things that real breakfasts are made.

WHEAT FOR THE CHINESE?

The Magazine of Wall Street, pointing out that the federal farm board may well have a tremendous carryover of wheat at the end of the year, and fearing that such a carryover would have an extremely depressing influence, makes this suggestion:

"Why not give it away? Four hundred million underfed Chinamen would devour it without loosening their belts. At the sight of a pile of wheat being distributed by the government the Communists would fade away faster than they ever will before machine guns. The wheat might be given to our people, but home relief can better be handled by cash, and without danger of making matters worse by upsetting the flour and baking trades.

"Giving wheat to starving Chinamen who aren't buying and can't buy will upset nothing—and may set up an era of peace and reconstruction in China. And China is one of the things that is the matter with his disturbed world."

"Dressed in our little Chinese clothes," said happy Scouty, "good-bye, you lads, it's time to head for bed." They bid their little friends good-bye and Clowny, with a drowsy sigh, said, "Gee, but sleep sounds good to me. I am a slumber head."

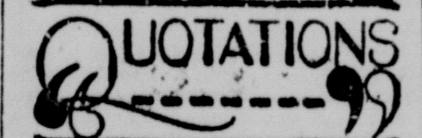

And so they sauntered down the street, all hoping that they'd shortly meet some Chinese lads. And then they did and Clowny cried, "Hello! We would like to stop and play with you. We will do whatever you tell us to join in any game of yours that maybe we don't know." One little lad spoke English well. He answered, "Say, that will be swell. Let's have a game of tag right now. We will teach you how to play." "Ha, ha!" laughed the Clowny. "We all know how that game is played. Come on, let's go. I'm 'it' so all the rest of you had best run on your way."

They played and played and, my,

Next morning Mister Travel Man, said, "Rush as quickly as you can into your clothes. We are going to take a trip far, far from here. Our next stop will be at Soochow. A queer boat is waiting for us now. We will sail along the Grand Canal. 'Twill thrill you, never fear!" The craft they soon were on was strange. "You sure were thoughtful to arrange a ride on such a boat as this," said Coppy, with a grin. "I am looking forward to this trip. I hope the boat won't dive and dip." And then they heard the owner of the boat exclaim, "Hop in!"

FIGHTING AT ARRAS
On May 2, 1917, the British and Scottish troops made impressive gains in the Battle of Arras after a week of hard fighting.

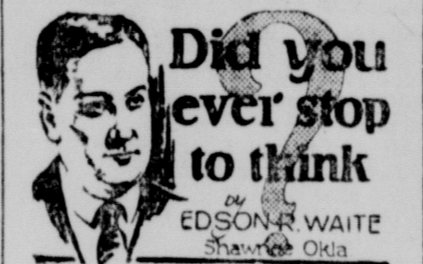

Two hundred prisoners were taken in the first forward sweep, when the Scots advanced in long lines and went through and beyond the village of Guemappe with loud shouts and cheers.

Philip Gibbs, war correspondent, wrote:

"For nearly three hours the Scots were held up by the fire of the German machine guns and artillery, and suffered many casualties, but the fought on, each little group of men acting with separate initiative and it is to their great honor as soldiers that they destroyed every machine-gun post in front of them.

"Then between 11 and 12 in the morning the enemy developed his first counter-attack. He massed great numbers of men in the valley below Guemappe, flung a great storm of shell on to the village, and then sent forward his troops to work around it. It was then that these Scottish troops showed their fierce and stubborn fighting spirit."

Daily Health Talk

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Fat is utilized by the human being largely as a source of energy. It contributes many calories in relationship to the amount that may be taken. By contributing energy, it relieves the intestines from the digestion, assimilation and absorption of a large amount of carbohydrate or sugar.

To a certain extent also fats are valuable in sparing protein, which is used for building tissue. However, the human being cannot be supported by fat alone; indeed, it is well to emphasize again that the human body demands a widely varied diet, and that concentration on any single type of food is likely to be injurious to health.

If the human being is starving, as occurs not only under conditions of famine but when people follow unwise reducing formulas, the body tries to live on the fat that has been stored up in times of plenty. Under such circumstances, more fat will be found in the blood, which is carrying it from one part of the body to another.

When fat in the form of butter of beef fat or nutritive oil is taken into the body, it is split up in the intestines and changed into fatty acids or soaps, then, through the action of the cells in the walls of the intestines, the fat is developed into a new form in which it is carried by the blood and deposited in the body. If the fat in the blood is in excess, the fluid portion of the blood will have a slightly milky color.

However, the fat is usually taken up by the tissues as rapidly as it develops and either stored away or used up promptly by the cells in the production of heat or to provide energy. The amount of fat that a person uses up in his body is, of course, regulated by the amount of carbohydrate or sugar that he is taking up and using at the same time.

It is interesting to realize that the chemical changes that have been described are going on all the time, changing the form and nature of various substances in order to make them available for the needs of the living cells.

KEEP THE WEEDS OUT!

Those who have made a study of hay fever tell us that there are really three hay fever seasons. The first, or spring season, begins when the blossoms of trees spread their pollen broadcast. The second, or summer season, begins in May and continues while the invisible clouds of pollen are released from blossoming grasses, chiefly June grass, orchard grass, timothy and red top. The third season begins about the middle of August and continues until frost kills the offending plants, giant and dwarf ragweed and the burweed marsh elder.

Many hay fever patients are susceptible to one kind of pollen only, and the disease runs its course during the pollination of that plant, the severity of the symptoms fluctuating with weather conditions the air being heavily laden with pollen after a high wind, or fairly free from it after a rain.

The uncult grassy vacant lots in the city or small communities contribute liberally to the pollen in the air. Here is a problem for the town or city officials. Clear the vacant lots of pollinating plants and so help to relieve the suffering of many of their citizens.

It is highly important that weeds be cut and lawns and vacant lots be mowed before the weeds and the grasses mature, that is, blossom, and before the pollen formed by the

VALUE OF FARM LANDS IN STATE SHOW DECREASES

Ogle Co. Values Averaged With Ten Others In State

Urbana, Ill., April.—(UP)—Valuation of farm land, exclusive of the buildings, in eleven Illinois counties has decreased 53 per cent during the past ten years, according to figures compiled and made public today by Dr. Charles L. Stewart, chief in agricultural economics at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Farm land values in the eleven counties in 1930 were 31.2 per cent less than 1925 and 52.6 per cent less than 1920, the tabulation shows. These valuations were apart from farm buildings.

Ogle county in northern Illinois, Coes, Crawford, Mason and Pike in central and Cumberland, Edwards, Englewood, Jersey Massac and Pope in southern Illinois made up the group of eleven counties. While the counties are not evenly distributed tendencies in the various parts of the state have been similar so far as real estate values are concerned. Stewart pointed out.

Offsetting to some extent the slump in farm land values has been a rise in farm building valuations. These increased in value in April, 1930, 15 per cent over January, 1925, and 23 per cent over January, 1920. The value of implements and machinery on farms was ten per cent higher than in 1930 than in 1925, but 30.6 per cent less in 1930 than in 1920.

The valuation of buildings in 1930 was 34.4 per cent as much as the valuation of land, as compared with 24 per cent in 1925 and 16.4 per cent in 1920. The climb in the relative importance of buildings is, of course, the result not so much of their increased value but of the decreased valuation of farm land, Stewart explained.

Dwellings represented half the valuation of all buildings on farms in the eleven counties. While the census made no separation between dwellings and other farm buildings before 1930, it is reasonable to suppose that dwellings, like other farm buildings, increased in value during the past decade, Stewart said.

BROTHER RICK GLAD SCORERS CHANGED MINDS

Glad He Was Not Given Base Hit Off Brother Wes

By JOHN W. STAHR
Chicago, May 2—(AP)—"Just another time at bat," was Rick Ferrell's effort at the plate in the eighth inning of a memorable game at Cleveland the other day.

Yet, though "AB's" are the bane of a ball-player's existence, Rick is pleased that the official scorer called this particular effort just a time at bat, with no credit for a base-hit, despite the fact he arrived safe at first.

Rick's kid brother, Wes, stellar hurler of the Cleveland Indians, was pitching that day, and the team for which Rick is catcher, the St. Louis Browns, had failed to scratch anything resembling a base-knock off his speedy delivery in seven and two-thirds innings.

With two out in the eighth, Wes, on the road to baseball's brightest hurling achievement—a no-hit, no-run game—and the Indians nine runs to the good, brother Rick strode to the plate.

"I didn't want a base-hit," says Rick, recounting the incident, "but I had to get up there and try my best. Even if it hadn't been my brother, I'd rather not get a base-hit at that stage of the game. Ball players are like that—most of 'em. They know they got all summer to get base knocks, but a no-hit game—they only come once in a lifetime. Anyway, I was up there, doing my best to knock my kid brother off his perch in the Hall of Fame."

"First he brushed over a curve ball for a strike. The next pitch, another curve, was outside for ball one. Then he turned on the steam for three fast ones in a row—a strike, another ball, making it two-and-two, then I got hold of a shoulder-high fast one and lit out for first base."

Was Well Hit
It was a pretty well hit ball, but Hunsfield came up with it and gunned it over to first. His peg was a little wide and pulled Ponson off the bag, and I was safe.

"Wes walked over a few steps from the mound and says, 'You wouldn't take that would you, Rick?' He was smiling but I bet he felt kinda chokey about it, at that, because they first pitched it as a hit. Then they decided it was a bum throw instead."

"I love my bingles just as much as the next ball-player," Rick concluded, "but there's one time 'just another time at bat' didn't make me mad."

Kid brother Wesley, as everyone knows, went on to attain his no-hit goal.

Four of the seven Ferrell brothers of Gilford College, N. C., are in professional baseball.

Steward To Come To Dixon Tomorrow

The Steward baseball club under the management of George Webber will appear for the first time this season before the local fans, in the game with the Dixon Independents at the latter's Van Buren avenue field Sunday afternoon. Manager Webber is said to have strengthened some of the weak spots on his team during the past week. In a game between the same clubs two weeks, Steward won over the Independents by a score of 3 to 2 after battling eleven innings in cold weather. A large delegation of Steward fans are expected to accompany their team. Plenge and Herrmann will do the twirling for the visitors with Krug catching. Eddie Burns of Rockford will pitch for the Independents with Steve Skelton behind the plate.

What Averages Of Big Leagues Show This Week

NATIONAL LEAGUE
New York, May 2—(AP)—After two weeks of campaigning in the National League only Virgil Davis of the Phillies has a batting mark of better than .500, and two more regulars are credited with marks above .400 in the semi-official averages which include Wednesday's games.

Davis leads the circuit with .552; Wally Roettger of Cincinnati is second with .447 and Rogers Hornsby, Chicago manager, third with .409. Trailing this trio are Berger, Boston, .388; Vergez, New York, .388; Leach, New York, .385; Stephenson, Chicago, .381; P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .380; English, Chicago, .378 and Watkins, St. Louis, .372.

Chuck Klein of Philadelphia is leading scorer with 15 runs. Vergez and Lidstrom of New York, Berger of Boston and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh are tied with 19 hits apiece. Six doubles give Davis first place in that respect as well as the batting lead. Hornsby this first with five homers, 15 runs driven in.

Wally Berger of Boston stole five sacks to lead the league.

As a club, the Chicago Cubs are the all-around leaders. They have a team batting average of .304 and a fielding mark of .984. New York is second. Sixteen pitchers have 1,000 averages but only five of them have won three games without a defeat to grime the lead. They are Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis; Charley Root, Chicago; Harry Seibold and Ed Brandt, Boston; and Clarence Mitchell, New York. Brandt leads in strikeouts with 17, two ahead of Root, while Larry French of Pittsburgh has given the most walks, 13.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Chicago, May 2—(AP)—Hammering an even 100 points onto his average during the second week of the campaign, Dale Alexander, first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, soared to the top of the American League individual batting list, according to unofficial figures which include Wednesday's games.

Alexander's terrific clip boosted his average to .490, 62 points better than the second place mark of Charlie Berry, Boston, catcher.

Joe Vosmik, young Cleveland outfielder, who roared through the first 10 days of the season at better than a .500 pace, tamed down to the extent of losing 171 points, and fell from the lead to fifth place among the regulars. Following Alexander and Berry, among the regulars, the leaders were: Spencer, Washington, .415; Ruth, New York, .400; Vosmik, Cleveland, .396; Hodapp, Cleveland, .381; Fonseca, Cleveland, .360; Falk, Cleveland, .357; Cooke, New York, .353; Melillo, St. Louis, .353.

Six Cleveland regulars batted 300 or better and the collective average of the pace setters was .331, two points shy of last week's mark, but miles in front of Washington's .292 for second place. The Athletics boosted their team fielding mark four points to .987 and retained the lead with New York second at .979.

Alexander headed the individual list in total hits, with 24, had the most total bases, 36, and was tied with Vosmik in belting out doubles at 7. Sumner of Washington had propelled in 15 runs to lead in that department, while Johnny Stone's five home runs was another best mark.

Lou Gehrig, New York's wallowing first baseman, headed the field in stolen bases, having swiped five, while honors in triples belonged to Harry Rice, Washington outfielder, who had lashed out four three-ply blows.

Five hurriers, Herb Pennock of the Yankees, Pat Caraway of Chicago, Rube Walberg, Philadelphia, Willis Hudlin of Cleveland, and Hal McKain of Chicago, had won two games, without losing any, but the most impressive record was owned by Wes Ferrell, who reached a new height Wednesday by holding the St. Louis Browns hitless and runless, for his fourth triumphs in five starts. Bob Grove of the Athletics' great southpaw, relinquished the strikeout leadership to Roy Sherid of the Yankees, who had fanned 23 batsmen in five games. Grove's average, however, was higher for he had whiffed 22 in four contests.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

DEFENDS BOARD'S ACTION

The decision of the Board of Supervisors at their last meeting to adopt the Spur System of road construction for the expenditure of the motor fuel tax money seems to have met with approval throughout the county excepting at Amboy and adjoining territory. The citizens of that city seem to be very much disappointed and are working hardships on some of the retail and wholesale business men of Dixon by refusing their goods to be sold in Amboy. This seems to be a very unfair way to show their dislike to the action of the board as it puts financial losses on innocent parties that had nothing whatever to do with the location of this board, and in many cases knew nothing of the affair. These people should put themselves in the same positions as these Dixon merchants and see the extremely unjust attitude that they are imposing on their brothers in business.

It is thought that within a year the people of Amboy will see the error of their attitude and be more than satisfied with the manner that the money is being expended. Take for instance the spur that is built from Lee Center to Route 2 will give the citizens of Lee Center a good road to the highway and when they reach that highway they will be more than twice as near to Amboy as they are to Dixon, and they will have their choice of going to either place. That certainly will not hurt Amboy. The spur from Paw Paw and the one from Steward will connect both those villages with state highways and when on those highways they will be just as near to Amboy as Dixon and will use their own mind as to which trading center they wish to visit. Likewise with the one connecting West Brooklyn with Route 70. The spur that will connect Harmon with Route 89 leaves the party about an equal distance from Amboy and Dixon. The route to Dixon is paved, while the route to Amboy is paved for one mile and a good macadam road the remainder of the way. That leaves the one spur from the Lowell Park gate to Route 26. This is it agreed will be the last one to be constructed, and it was included in the system because that is one of the County Aid roads, and it is the most expensive in the county to maintain.

Some of the members of the board and their friends throughout the county began to think the matter over more carefully, and they found that the cost of this gravel road ran higher than was first thought; the up-keep too being considered. No one seemed to be satisfied.

The board met again in January 1931. The motor fuel tax road was again brought up and discussed. Considerable preliminary work had already been done, such as surveys, some new right-of-way obtained and some culverts were in course of construction. The question of surface was voted on again, and it was voted to change the construction from gravel to a concrete slab 10 feet wide placed to one side of the center with an 8 foot gravel shoulder. The location was left as it was. The board again adjourned.

Since the first consideration of this route the State Department located State Highway No. 71 to extend west from Shabbona to connect with State Route 70 in Viola township, crossing the Lee-DeKalb county line 2½ miles south of the village of Lee and about five miles north of Paw Paw. This blasted the hopes of Paw Paw for a cement road. Their next best bet was to in some manner get a concrete spur to connect their city with the new State Highway 71, about five miles north of them.

The County Board met again in April after the spring election and five new members had been elected. There was still considerable dissatisfaction regarding the location of the motor fuel tax road. Many taxpayers throughout the county protested that it would take years to complete the 22 mile stretch. Another objection was that in many places it passed through a thinly populated section, and that on this proposed route there was already a good macadam road which could be repaired for a few thousand dollars.

The motor fuel tax law was brought out and read, and it was found to state that it recommended the first thing to be done with this money was to connect all villages, towns and cities with the trunk highways by the construction of spurs.

Immediately the supervisors from Alto (Steward) and Wyoming (Paw Paw) saw the chance to connect their villages with the main highways. This was talked over with others that were similarly located and the Supervisor from Alto brought in the resolution asking that the motor fuel tax road be re-located, and that instead of the one formerly designed, that six concrete spurs be built as follows:

1. From the village of Paw Paw in a northwesterly direction to connect with State Highway 71.
2. From the village of Steward west to connect with State Highway 70.
3. From the village of West Brooklyn in a northeasterly direction to connect with Highway 70.
4. From the village of Lee Center west to connect with State Highway No. 2.
5. From the village of Harmon east to connect with State Highway No. 89.
6. From this gate at Lowell Park south to connect with State Highway No. 26.

This proposition was put to a vote and carried 15 to 11. Those voting yes were: L. D. Hemingway, Alto; J. W. Griese, Ashton; C. L. Ramsdell, China; D. H. Spencer, L. A. Garrison, James Buckley, W. J. Rose, Leon Miller, and H. L. Gehant Dixon; Albert Willis, Lee Center; C. E. Spangler, Nachusa; Leon Hart, Palmyra; Wm. Sandrock, Reynolds; H. O. Risler, Willow Creek; and H. A. Knetsch, Wyoming. The no votes were: G. P. Finch, Amboy; W. F. Burhenn, Bradford; John Fassig, West Brooklyn; Seth Anderson, East Grove; C. B. Kegwin, Hamilton; F. H. Kugler, Harmon; John Finn, Marion; W. F. Avery, May; J. T. Emmitt, Nelson; Charles Keubel, Sublette; and Julius Delhotal, Viola.

One of the strongest objections that the Amboy people are making is on account of the short spur that is proposed to be built to Lowell Park. This may help Dixon, but is not Dixon entitled to a consideration in the expenditure of this money? Perhaps those that have been making this protest did not consider the fact that Dixon township pays more than two-fifths of this motor fuel fund.

At any rate if the proposition is considered from a strictly disinterested standpoint will this spur proposition benefit more of the taxpayers in general over the entire county than to build one long road across one side of the county?

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN E. MOYER

President Dixon Chamber of Commerce.

FROM AN "OLD TIMER"

Some of the "Old Timers" who attended the first meeting of the new City Council came away bewildered and saddened, feeling that the "Old Order" had passed away. They recalled that in the olden days when the Council was presided over by such distinguished men as John Dixon, Henry S. Dixon, Col. John Dement, Col. H. T. Noble, Dr. Oliver Everett, James A. Hawley, Judge James B. Charters, Judge R. S. Farrand, Atty. Gen. James K. Edsall, Joseph Crawford, George Steel and others the proceedings were conducted with the greatest simplicity.

Those were the days when every man was as good as any other if not better. So all sat at one common table on the same level. No man was deified to by the Mayor. If a member wanted to make a motion the Clerk shoved across the table to him the blank form for the motion, and the member reached for it and wrote it out himself and showed it back.

But now this shoving and reaching are classed as undignified. No longer do all sit at the common table. The Mayor, flanked by the Clerk and Attorney sit exalted above the lower salaried officials. They face the audience with golden stars glittering upon many bosoms for all to see and admire. The humble Commissioners sit with their backs to the audience, possibly to conceal their humiliation.

In place of the old Jacksonian simplicity we find the pomp and show of the Lodge. No longer does the Clerk shove and the Commissioner reach. In place of that Chief Van, the most admired and respected and useful man in the community, is taken from his regular duties down stairs, and is degraded into a sort of Royal Chamberlain, and he carries and fetches all papers for the Commissioners.

And the Old Timers observed with regret that the famous old brickbat, emblematic of the solidity of the city government, has been replaced by a marble slab engraved with the word "Dixon" whether for the City or the Mayor is not known. Possibly it means the change attributed to the old Roman Emperor who found Rome a city of brick and left it one of marble. Or maybe, it means a tombstone.

And they observed another startling innovation. Instead of leaving the Commissioners free to act as they pleased now they saw handed to them neatly typed Orders of the Day, with motions already written out, with directions as to which Commissioner was to sign and possibly directions as how to vote. If the latter, the Old Timers had a momentary thrill when Commissioners Campbell and Loftus, trained in the Old Order, failed to obey, and the steam roller passed over them.

When the Council got grandly under way the Old Timers saw that the first order of business was the "deposition" of official heads and the abolishment of salaries in the "interest of economy" and the handling of the fiscal affairs of the City over to such banks as could show over $3,000,000 of resources. That one victim who was calmly guillotined happened to be the sole representative of the women voters of the city made no difference. Economy must be the first law.

Naturally, the Old Timers then expected that "in the interests of economy" the Mayor and Council would also give up their salaries, or at least let the Banks pay them, as since they are to pay no interest on over $100,000 of city bonds they might well do this. But no such motion was heard. Doubtless it was overlooked in the preparation of the Orders of the Day and will be attended to at the next meeting.

Instead they heard the old cry of the Queen in "Alice in Wonderland" "Off with their heads!" And then also "in the interests of economy" two additional police men were added to the pay roll. Of course if friend Van is to be expected to act as Butler to the Council, another cop, at least, must be added to take Van's place in the office, to book offenders and register the unemployed seekers for a bed on the cold stone floor of the Hotel Dixon in the basement.

And now the irreverent ones on the street are making merry over predictions as to subsequent additions to the dignity and grandeur of the Council. It is said that hereafter when the Mayor enters, Van, in resplendent regalia, is to stand up, as in court. Also, that as of when the Roman mob demanded in times of financial depression, "Panem et Circenses", that is, "bread and circuses", the New Council is to furnish at least the circus, if not the bread. Every session it is predicted that the Chief Toreador, Senior Brooks, accompanied by appropriate music from Carven, will bait the utilities and exhibit the Water Company under Soviet management, all at no cost to any water consumer.

Ladies as well as gentlemen are still invited to attend all sessions of the council and are guaranteed entertainment. It is hoped that the new formality will not require us to dig up dress suits and evening dresses. Already the stockholders of the Dixon Theater are wearing deep creases of care between the eyes at the threatened loss of patronage on Tuesday evenings. But most of us now have not the necessary forty cents why should we not go to the official entertainment which we are paying for in taxes?

MORAL: A Little Ridicule now and then is a Good Cure for What Ails You.

WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED
The unemployment situation and its solution is the problem of most general concern of any facing the state at the present time, though politicians and big business appear to be attempting to make us believe otherwise. Among the "common people," the rank and file, the back-bone of the commonwealth, there is hardly a home that is not affected more or less by the prevailing unemployment.

The editorial in Tuesday evening's Telegraph urging a large state appropriation for a building program at the Dixon State hospital to provide work for idle men of this vicinity, contains a good suggestion—so far as it goes. It would seem a wise plan to do much more public construction work during the coming season, both to supply work to the unemployed and to improve the facilities of the state along the line of public welfare. But we must not lose sight of the fact that larger appropriation always mean more taxes and with real estate, particularly homes and farms already paying much more than their just share it does not seem the part of wisdom to urge or suggest larger appropriations until some provision is made for an adjustment in taxing responsibility whereby each citizen will contribute his proportionate share toward the expense of public improvements of all kinds.

In the matter of public road construction, we have advanced far under this principle for with a state building program paid for by auto licenses and gas tax, each pays his share of the expense and it is not excessively heavy on any one. Now we need some plan for providing funds for other lines of public welfare which are a part of the state government, whereby each citizen will pay his share, according to his ability to pay.

There is now before the legislature a bill known as the Lantz Income tax bill, S. B. 138, which if it becomes a law, will accomplish this very purpose. It has passed the Senate and is now before the House where it is said it is meeting strong opposition. We would do well to study the bill and to become familiar with its provisions, and to keep in touch with its progress and the attitude of our legislators concerning it, also the arguments presented on both sides. As citizens, as voters, as tax payers, we have a right and a responsibility in the matter of law-making and in the highest welfare of the state and its people.

See how much Nash saves you.

PERSONS accustomed to driving other cars marvel at the quickness and litheness with which even the largest Nash steps through and around traffic. The answer is the notable Nash freedom from excess weight. Nash eliminates weight at precisely those points where excess weight interferes most with performance. Nash hollows out its crankpins, thus reducing the centrifugal load on the crankshaft bearings by more than three tons when the shaft is revolving at top speed. Nash Invar Strut pistons are a whole pound lighter than cast iron pistons—resulting in livelier, more spirited performance. Nash engineering means longer life, greater value—and performance you can appreciate only by personal driving test.

Weekly Sermonette

By REV. MORTON W. HALE
Pastor First Congregational Church

Isa. 12:2.—Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust and not be afraid: for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song; he also is become my salvation.

The Glorious Assurance

There are most wonderful outstanding declarations in God's Word which furnish the foundation of the Christian's hope. The above passage is one of such statements.

It declares God to be salvation, strength and song. He is brought very close by the connecting word "my."

God is my salvation . . . the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song.

God is made very real by appropriating what He is, thus making Him to become our salvation.

The Lord invites every one to accept Him and having received him as their salvation, strength and song, it is possible to exclaim, "I will trust and not be afraid."

RADIO STATION AT NAUEN SHOWS GREAT GROWTH

Powerful German Broad- casting Station Tiny Plant 25 Years Ago

Nauen—(UP)—Twenty-five years ago a small group of engineers and technicians opened the first German wireless station in the open country near here. The plant operated with eight kilowatts and was powered by a small steam engine. It had a range of about 3,500 kilometers, and could reach St. Petersburg or Madeira.

Today, Nauen can operate 20 high-powered radio beams for telephone conversations to as many points on the earth, including Sydney, Bangkok, Tokio, Mukden, Manila, Santiago de Chile, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, and North American stations.

Telephoto service has been working with North America for some time. Picture service was opened with South America in June of last year. The telephone link with Nauen was inaugurated last December.

Siam Goes Wireless
The installing of the Siam station is an interesting sidelight on the development of radio telephony in the Far East. The German Telefunken Company handed over the short-wave transmitted at Bangkok in 1928 for public service to Europe, Java, and the Philippines. In the first year it took over virtually all the traffic formerly handled by cables, and it soon became apparent that the station would have to be enlarged. As soon as the radio-telephone service between Nauen and Buenos Aires had definitely proved the worth of this service, the Siam government gave orders for rebuilding and enlarging the plant.

The Siam connection was officially completed in December when Prince Purachatra spoke from his palace in Bangkok for an hour and a half to his son in Hamburg, some 5,750 miles away. The conversation was as clear as an intra-city call.

The Bangkok transmitter is also used as a trial short-wave broadcasting station.

A brief glance at the past eight years will show some of the expansion which the German stations at Nauen, and the receiving stations at Beclitz (phone and pictures) and Glewitz (code), have been making.

Egyptian Radio
Connections with Egypt were opened in 1923; telegrams also were routed along this link to Abyssinia, Erythraea, Italian Somaliland, Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Palestine, Syria and Lebanon and the Hedjaz.

The Dutch East Indies connection with the Malabar station was completed in 1925.

Communication with the Philippines was established direct to Manila in 1927.

Japan had one-way communication with Germany (Nauen to Osaka) in 1926. This was made a two-way connection last year.

The Chinese one-way service which had been working from Nauen since 1924 was made a complete circuit in 1928.

The Buenos Aires and Santiago services were enlarged by the addition of picture service last year. The Siam station is the latest to be added.

AMBOY NEWS

AMBOY—Harry Chamberlin of Sterling transacted business here Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. M. C. Galloway of Geneva visited Amboy friends Wednesday.

Heleen Hegert will return to her work in Chicago the latter part of the week after spending a week's vacation at the home of her parents.

Merle Hicks who recently suffered a broken leg was removed from the hospital Sunday. It will be some time however before he will be able to get around without aid.

Harry Sheppard is now employed at the Edwards Bros. garage.

Mrs. Alfred Rockwood spent this week-end in DeKalb visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Hicks.

John Liggett, who was severely burned about five weeks ago is able to be out again, however, he will not be able to return to his duties at the Central Oil Co. until about the middle of May.

Billy Brady is very ill with the mumps.

Albert Hillison was able to leave the hospital Tuesday.

Slight damage by fire was done to the roof of the Robert Morgridge home Wednesday morning. Conrad (Butch) Metzger who was at the scene when the blaze was discovered had the fire well under control with a garden hose when the fire department arrived.

Pearl Dishong and Mrs. Harold Ankeny spent two days the fore part of the week in Chicago purchasing merchandise.

A number of young people from here were in Mendota Wednesday night to hear Coon-Sanders and their band.

At the close of school in June Miss Lena Johnson and Miss Maude Manley will leave the faculty of the high school. Both teachers have been with the school for a number of years and will be greatly missed.

They have not made known their plans for the future.

Mrs. Harry Turnquist and daughter Mary Louise spent Thursday in Pockford.

Jessie C. Harper, who taught Knute Rockne the fundamentals of the now famous Notre Dame system while Rockne was playing his senior year, will succeed Rockne as director of athletics at Notre Dame. He will assume his new duties May 1.

The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university, reached an agreement with Harper April 21 in a long distance telephone conversation to Ashland, Kansas. Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell made an official announcement of the appointment over WGN the Chicago Tribune radio station at 10:30 o'clock April 21, when he gave his annual universal Notre Dame night radio talk.

Thus the man whose pupil became the greatest football coach in the history of the game takes back the reins he gave to Rockne in 1918.

Harper, however, will do no coaching, but will merely serve in Rockne's capacity as director of athletics, with Heartley Anderson, senior football coach; Jack Chevigny, junior football coach and John P. Nicholson, track coach as his assistants.

Harper was graduated from the university of Chicago in 1906, where he learned football from Amos Alonzo Stagg. He was halfback of the new light wing type in whom Stagg saw possibilities of opening up the game by sending backs off tackles and around end instead of straight through the line.

Upon coming to Notre Dame in 1913 Harper assumed the duties of football, basketball, track and baseball coach. He turned over the track to Rockne in 1914, but handled the other three sports himself until 1918, when his pupil succeeded him as director of athletics and football coach. Howard (Cap) Edwards, captain of the Irish eleven, was Harper's assistant in football in 1913 and Rockne helped him in four intervening years before becoming head coach.

Harper left Notre Dame to take over ranch interests in Sitka, Kansas, just outside of Wichita, less than 100 miles from the spot at which Rockne met his death March 31, in an airplane crash.

As head football coach, Harper introduced the backfield shift which he had learned from Stagg and which later became the basis of the Notre Dame system. Rockne always gave full credit to Stagg for originating this style of play, although he himself added the idea of shifting the ends as well as the backs and perfected Stagg's ideas.

The development and wide use of the forward pass featured Notre Dame play in 1913, when Rockne was captain and end.

Harper's record as a football coach was a remarkable one. In the five years that he was coach his teams won 33 games out of 39, losing five and tying one. The 1913 team was undefeated, winning seven games.

Harper's ability as a basketball and baseball coach approached his football wizardry. His teams from 1913 to 1917, inclusive, in basketball won 57 games while losing only 17.

In the three of five seasons his teams won 14 out of 16 games. His baseball teams won 63 games while losing 24, one game resulting in a tie. His 1913 team won 24 games while losing to Navy, Army and Lake Forest.

In 1916 Harper produced a team which won 10 straight games, one of the longest winning streaks in college baseball at that time. Although Harper has not been in direct touch with college sports since 1918, he had a keen interest in them and was advised by Rockne of many Notre Dame moves that have not been made public. Rockne never lost his admiration of and respect for Harper and on many occasions asked his advice on various problems which came up both in matter of coaching and in that of directing other sports.

Baseball Gossip

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

It wasn't so many months ago that George Earnshaw was buzzing ten past the St. Louis Cardinals in the World Series. For some reason or another, however, the famed right arm that came to the rescue of Connie Mack's Athletics last fall has not been performing so perfectly this spring for George—or at least it hadn't until yesterday.

Twice Connie Mack had given his right-handed ace the starting assignment and twice Earnshaw failed. On two other occasions he went in as a relief hurler but was not credited with a victory nor charged with a defeat. But yesterday, Earnshaw won the Earnshaw of 1930, who won 22 games for the world champions, as he turned the New York Yankees back with three singles and the Athletics won 4 to 0.

One of the singles came in the second while the other two were put together in the ninth in a futile rally after Mule Haas and Mickey Cochrane had put the champions out in front with home runs.

Jumping into battle after a five-day layoff due to rain and cold weather, the lowly Boston Red Sox pounded three Washington pitchers all over the lot to defeat the Senators 10 to 4. Jack Russell held Walter Johnson's Nationals to ten scattered hits while his teammates were getting to Alvin Crowder, Bob Burke and Tauchner for 14 safeties. Joe Judge, veteran Washington first baseman, was forced to withdraw from the game in the sixth and was taken to a hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

His physician said he probably would be out of the game two weeks. Joey Kuhel of Baltimore would substitute for Judge.

Vic Frasier had his right arm and batting eye working on "all-four" as he pitched and batted the White Sox victory over the St. Louis Browns. The Texas rookie held the Browns to nine well-spaced hits and in addition doubled with bases loaded.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BERYL BORDEN discovers that her half-sister, IRENE EVERETT, is planning to elope with TOMMY WILSON. She tries to prevent the marriage by kidnapping Tommy with the assistance of her neighborhood "gang."

They capture him on the eve of the elopement and drive him out to the country where Beryl urges him to continue in college and not break the heart of his adoring aunt, MRS. HOFFMAN, who is financing him. Failing to convince him of his folly, Beryl calls him a "sap" and takes him back to her sister, Irene, enraged at the long wait, refuses to listen to Tommy's explanation and postpones the elopement. Desperately, Tommy carries his suitcase home and hides it on the porch as his aunt meets him at the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER III
"GOING fishing with your uncle?" Mrs. Hoffman asked Tommy.

"Not if I can help it," he said determinedly. "Just going down for some ice water."

"Tommy Wilson, you haven't been drinking!"

"Oh, Aunt Em, does everything always have to be according to rule?"

"I didn't really think you had," his aunt answered with a touch of abashment. "I'll go down and fix the ice water for you."

Tommy did not object, and she moved on, her heavy figure in the gray dressing gown grotesquely resembling a giant penguin. When he figured she had reached the kitchen he slipped quietly down the stairs and out to the front porch.

He was on his way back to the front door, his suitcase in his hand, when a hall from the neighboring garden brought him to a halt.

"Hey, Tommy," a shrill voice called. "Gold' on our picnic?"

Tommy did not stay to hear more. He hurried back upstairs and shoved the suitcase under the bed. A few minutes later his aunt called up from the lower hall: "Tommy, Michael's here and wants to know if you're going on the picnic?"

Tommy stuck his head out of his door and called back: "No, I'm not, I'm."

"You're going with me," his Uncle George put in, emerging partially from the bathroom. "Seeing you're awake you've got no excuse now."

Tommy had his choice, or thought he had, and he certainly wasn't going on any picnic that was personally conducted by Beryl Borden.

"I'm going with Uncle George," he shouted down to his aunt.

HE dressed hurriedly, thinking he might escape both invitations, but his uncle, guessing his intention, cornered him as he was trying to leave the house and dragged him into the kitchen.

His aunt fed him with special care. The poor boy looks all ragged out, she remarked sympathetically to no one in particular. "Wouldn't you like some spiced pears, Tommy? I've got a jar or two left from last year."

Spiced pears Tommy liked especially. "All right," he said, offering a favor upon her.

"Hurry up," his uncle urged as he dawdled over a third helping of the fruit; "there's more important things in life than pears."

"Don't I know?" Tommy mourned.

"Hmp, it don't look like it. Come on, it's time to go."

Tommy got up with a sigh. "Save the rest of them for dinner," he said to Aunt Emma, indicating the remainder of the pears.

"Not worth bothering with," his uncle scoffed. "Come on, let's go." They went out and got into Mr. Hoffman's shiny new car, their fishing tackle stowed in the tonneau, but no sign of a lunch basket, that Tommy could see.

"Don't we eat?" he worried.

"Never mind," his uncle answered abruptly. "Start her up."

They had gone about 10 miles on a new state highway that traverses a portion of Long Island from east to west when they passed Beryl and the members of her picnic party. Tommy scowled darkly at them in answer to their shouts of greeting and wild hand waving.

"What made yuh change your mind?" Michael shouted above the rest.

"That kid's a pest," Tommy muttered.

Some unexpressed emotion moved him to step on the gas and they flew along at a speed that left Beryl's old car far in the rear. Mr. Hoffman protested, but Tommy paid him no heed. He felt like getting even with some one.

In far less time than Mr. Hoffman expected they arrived at a crossroads corner where they turned south to the fishing grounds. There, reports had it, the bluefish were running plentifully.

"Stop here at this garage a minute," Mr. Hoffman said to Tommy as he slowed up for the turn.

"What for?"

"Never you mind. Do as I say and stop."

Tommy stopped.

"I want to see a feller in here," his uncle said, getting down from the car.

"Don't sell him a dog," Tommy said suspiciously. His uncle was acting "funny," and he couldn't understand it.

"Is that so?" his uncle asked with a touch of real anxiety. "Why I thought . . . her mother was over to the theater last night, looking for you, and she said Irene was going away for a while. I thought it was all right when I met Beryl."

"Where'd you meet her?" Tommy asked skeptically.

"At the drug store. I went in for a soda."

"Must have been pretty late," Tommy pursued. "She was at home when I left there last night and that wasn't early."

"Sure it was late. She was getting something for her mother; said she had hysterics, but she looked like she needed something for herself."

"H'm, she made a quick recovery," Tommy retorted, looking over toward Beryl, who was herding her picnic group into lesser space in the old car. Of course he could not see the shadows under her eyes, or that the color which was usually hers naturally today was from the rouge pot. She was laughing, and bantering her gang with her customary light-heartedness, which seemed to Tommy in his present mood of bitterness toward her like an especially vile form of grossness.

"Come on," she called to them. "My kids will be getting hungry before you've got your hooks baited."

BERYL insisted upon driving and Tommy had to sit squeezed in between her and his uncle.

"If a cop sees you," he warned hopefully, "you'll get a ticket for this overcrodding."

"I know every cop on Long Island by his first name," Beryl boasted, and Tommy said, "I dare say you do."

They arrived finally, somewhat confused as to the proper ownership of various assorted arms and legs, at the beach, and piled out according to their respective fitness.

Beryl watched Tommy and his uncle take off for their fishing with genuine longing in her shadowed eyes. She loved fishing, but she couldn't leave her gang—that was her promise to their mothers.

They needed her supervision, for they were "rarin' to go," as they informed her.

"If you want to do something, dig into the depths of Pride of the Sea and get that stove assembled," she directed them. "We're going to have fish."

"Maybe," Pigmy grunted. They busied themselves with the stove and fuel, with digging a deep hole in the sand to keep the water-melon and bottled drinking water cool, with getting kites in working order, and various other occupations, until one of the number cut his foot on a piece of broken glass. Then they all stood around while Beryl gave first aid to the injured—all but Angie, the youngest boy.

Angie, who had been eyeing the water with infinite craving for its refreshing coolness, thought it a good time—with everyone busy—to fulfill his wish. He wasn't the least bit interested in what was going on where Miss Beryl was—too often it was work. The water was fun.

He waded out until the water was up to his waist. Then he started to swim. He wasn't a bad swimmer for his age—eight—but what he hadn't seen, far out, and rapidly coming nearer was what some people call a water kitty. Undreaming of his danger, he swam straight for it.

Pastoral Message—

"Thou art my God, early will I seek Thee."

In a world where there is so much to ruffle the spirit's plumes, how grateful that entering into the secret of God's pavilion, which will bring it back to composure and back to peace. In a world where there is much sadness and depression; how blessed the communion with Him in whom is the true source and fountain of all true gladness and abiding joy. In a world where so much is ever seeking to unhallow our spirits to render them common and profane, how high the privilege of consecrating them anew in prayer to holiness and to God. In the light of prayer, we can walk and work. Activity in doing good is one recipe for being cheerful Christians. It is like exercise to the body and it keeps the soul in health.

The Epworth League of the Christian church held a winter roast at the Sanford Grove, Friday evening.

Mrs. Arthur Shoop has been a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Moore.

Among those who attended the officers training school of the Ogle County 4-H clubs at Oregon, Thursday evening were Mrs. Fred Hardesty, and the officers of the Pine Rock girls club, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Heath and son Thayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Drummond of Wisconsin were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Schade and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Drummond early in the week.

The Ashton station will be the scene of the annual spring flight of pigeons under the direction of Mr. R. Albers. The pigeons which are trained carrier pigeons number about 5,000, an express car being needed to transport them here from Chicago. The pigeons are released once at a time and their return to their home lofts are timed by the association sponsoring the flights.

Many from Ashton assist in the release of the birds and it is a most interesting sight to note the birds take wing, find their bearings and turn toward home.

Gardening is a favorite pastime with many local folks and the past week has been most favorable to this labor.
